

Lu Christian S. Ong

“Math is a wonderful thing.”

From a boy in wonder, Lu soon became “The Star of Asia.”

Landing in Ateneo meant challenge but fulfillment. Reports are not his type, but that’s what friends are for! His passion for math grew, but teaching made the journey more worthwhile. It is a joy to excel in math, but Lu gives all thanks to God for His provision.

Sailing on, he hopes to be one of advancement, servitude, and humility. This rabbit is no longer in his hole, but is now out for more carrot quests!

Life is a constant battle with its surprises and it takes being spontaneous and doing service with a smile to overcome them all. A lot of operations will be involved and yet in the end, it won’t make complete sense anyway so just enjoy the process. And just when you think you’re about to give up (on either life or math), you’ll soon realize that you can actually find the answer- just like in the years that have passed. Here’s to more struggles in finding answers to life’s surprises! Fighting!
