

DOUBLE MAJOR IN AB ECONOMICS

Claudine Nicole H. Cu

Claud stands out as one of the tallest girls in the batch, but what really makes her remarkable is how she consistently strives for greater heights – in academics, sports, or even friendship. First impressions are usually “quiet” and “shy” but with her endearing sweet smile, warm disposition, and love for spontaneous adventures, it’s hard not to get drawn in. If there’s anyone who I’m especially thankful to have met in Ateneo, it’s Claud, and I’m lucky to call her my best friend (L. Ong).

MINOR IN PHILOSOPHY

Romabel S. Cuevas

4 Years. 8 semesters. A Major in Business. A Minor in Philosophy. Ateneo Musicians’ Pool. And so much more. Sometimes I wonder what keeps Arby going amidst all these things. She manages to keep a relationship, have exceptional grades, and play music: she could go crazy. But she doesn’t. Because it’s not about the obligations she quantifies. She had 4 years of college, yet it’s the countless amount of friendships that matter. Because what really counts, is what you can’t count. (I. Invencion)
