

Johnilou Marie M. Reario

In between the cups of coffee and sleepless nights were conversations with people who kept my soul moving. In between the heartbreaks and tears of frustration, I found solace in the reminder that I'm not alone in my struggles. In between schoolwork and orgwork were friendships and memories that filled my heart for days. In between feeling lost and changing directions, I found a better and stronger version of myself. Thank you Ateneo, for making my mind strong, my soul light, and my heart happy.

Back when I was a freshman, an OrSem speaker told us that we would not graduate Ateneo without changing drastically. He was right. I started college as a raw potato. Now I'm a french fry. (Because I am thinner, a bit saltier, and slightly more loveable than before.) On a more serious note, thanks for the four years, everyone! Good game; well-played.
