Thank you, Ateneo, for five years of life questions. I wouldn't be who I am now if it weren't for all of the opportunities you've offered me. From a double degree that taught me that I can be a holistic and responsible capitalist who can make others happy while trying to better the system, to fencing which gave me a family and a chance to live out my sports anime dreams. But more importantly, you taught me to ask the important questions in life: what makes a sandwich truly a sandwich?
